Rating Action and Rationale

- EthiFinance Ratings upgrades the long-term corporate rating of Safran to A+ (from A), maintaining its Stable outlook. EthiFinance Ratings also reaffirms its short-term corporate rating at EF1+.
- Headquartered in France, Safran SA designs, develops, and manufactures aircraft engines for both commercial and military use, as well as various aerospace and defence equipment.
- This upgrade derives from the expected, and already visible, improvement in credit metrics through 2023-2027, despite the expected temporary impacts from the Collins deal. Safran has indeed received clearance from the EU anti-trust authorities - in addition to the removal of the Italian veto that delayed the process in 2024 - to acquire the flying commands of Collins Aerospace. The closing of the operation is expected by mid-2025.
- Safran reported revenues of €27.7bn for 2024, for adjusted EBITDA (adjusted for capitalised R&D) of €5.0bn, equivalent to a margin of 18.0%, stable YoY. Strong, recurring cashflow generated internally (cashflow after dividends and changes in equity) has enabled the company to deleverage. Our adjusted net debt (mainly adjusted for employee benefits, borrowings subject to specific conditions and factoring) turned negative at end-2024, thereby reflecting Safran's excellent financial health.
- Our ratings are therefore supported by i) an excellent financial risk profile as emphasized by the group's credit ratios (e.g. a negative net adjusted leverage ratio at end-2024, although we expect it to slightly deteriorate on the back of the Collins deal); ii) its leading global market position, which places the company among the top 10 in the sector in terms of revenue; iii) the favourable geographic diversification, with 42% of 2024 sales in Europe, 33% in the Americas, 16% in APAC, and 9% in Africa and Middle East.
- Our ratings remain mainly constrained by our industry risk assessment (BBB), with moderate growth perspectives, mild volatility of profitability, and medium-to-high ESG risk stemming from its industry's environmental impact. Geopolitical tensions and regulatory uncertainties further contribute to the industry's inherent risks, potentially affecting demand dynamics and supply chain operations.
- The capital goods industry has medium-to-high ESG risks under our methodology (sector heatmap score between 3.5 and 4), slightly constraining our industry assessment. Heavy industries have a high impact on climate as they are highly energy-intensive in the production process and generate high levels of GHG on all scope measures. The capital goods sector has also a significant impact on resources, consuming a large amount of raw materials. However, impact on biodiversity is medium as this can vary depending on the land use and the production process. Regarding suppliers, raw materials are increasingly problematic given geopolitical uncertainties, and the sector is also affected by human rights issues.
- On a more positive note, the company has a favourable ESG score (between 1.0 and 1.5), which offsets the industry risk, resulting in a slight positive impact on the final rating from ESG aspects. The company's favourable ESG score is primarily attributed to its robust governance framework. This includes the presence of eight independent members on the Board of Directors, the clear separation of the roles of Chairman and CEO, and a strategic focus on ESG priorities. On the environmental front, the group has made significant progress toward its greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions reduction target. As of end-2024, scope 1 & 2 emissions had been reduced by 21.7% compared to the 2018 baseline, not too far from its interim target of a 30% reduction by 2025. Additionally, a long-term goal validated by the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi) calls for a 50% reduction by 2030 from the same baseline year. In 2024, the company achieved a 5% yoy decrease in energy intensity and a 6% yoy reduction in GHG emissions intensity.

Issuer Description

Headquartered in France, Safran SA is a Tier 1 supplier with leading positions in its markets. Within its three divisions, Safran designs, manufactures, and sells engines for commercial and military aircraft, other defense equipment, as well as commercial aircraft interiors. It also generates a significant proportion of its sales and profitability from maintenance, repair, and related services, as well as the sale of spare parts for its products.

The company is notably recognized for its collaboration with General Electric Aviation in developing the LEAP engine, a crucial component utilized in major aircraft models such as the Boeing 737 Max, the Airbus A320neo, and the Comac C919. In 2024, the group generated revenues of €27.7bn, with EthiFinance ratings' adjusted EBITDA of €5.0bn (EBITDA margin of 18%). The EthiFinance Ratings-adjusted net leverage ratio (NFD/EBITDA ratio) was negative at end-2024.

Safran is listed on the Euronext Paris stock exchange, and is part of the CAC 40 index. As of April 11, 2025, the French government was the main shareholder with a 11.6% stake, for a total market capitalisation of around €89bn.

Liquidity

We assess the liquidity profile of Safran as "Superior" reflecting its high level of liquidity at end-2024 (cash available and committed credit lines), in addition to a strong refinancing profile.

Credit Metrics Expected Evolution (CMEE)

We expect the group's credit ratios to remain broadly unchanged over the next 12 months despite the expected Collins deal by mid-2025.

Rating Sensitivity

- Long-term and short-term rating positive factors (↑)

Already at an excellent level, the improvement in our LT rating would mainly derive from an improvement in our assessment of the industry risk, something which is not expected at present. The ST rating is already positioned in the highest rating category, as per our methodology.

- Long-term and short-term rating negative factors (↓)

A downgrade of our LT rating could occur if the company's results deviate materially from our forecasts, for instance in the event of a debt-funded acquisition, resulting in a sustained adjusted net debt ratio above 0.5x. A downgrade of our short-term rating would imply a downgrade of our long-term rating, as well as a change in the CMEE from Stable to Negative, which seems unlikely at present, as this would occur in a severe downturn scenario for the aerospace sector.
